12. What did you especially like about the seminar?

- Nice discussion atmosphere,
- The 12 topics Professor included in the seminar is so much practical and i wouwould say , as an economist we need to know a bit of all of these topics. And this tooic need to know bcz current world now faching situation like this.
- I like that we all have one of our own discussant, I also like that there are so many interesting discussions.
- The discussion parts
- Structure, clarity and exchange opportunities.
- I like the idea of a discussion partner, this increased the discussion happening after each presentation. This is a significant improvement compared to previous seminars I have participated in.
- Some topics where very interesting and up to date
- I could havw a overview of inflation and I will make better decision to find the master thesis topic
- Il like the post discussion of the seminar. And the professors more diving into explaining concepts in detail.

13. What should be improved?

- I like the idea of having two papers for each topic which is especially great for the term paper. However, I struggled with putting all of the information into a 20 minute presentation. It is tough, since you have to spare out a lot of probably interesting point, which I found difficult to do.
- I really would have liked to choose an own subject regarding inflation.
- More connections between the discussants, and more (at least one more meeting) with the supervisor before the presentation, so that the supervisor can give feedback on the presentation structure.
- From my perspective Everythingh was well organised and Structured , I enjoyed a lot my Supervisor was so much Helpful.
- Appointment times before the seminar presentation. Sometimes due to communication barrier few things remain unclear, and students go in entirely different direction. Two appointments before seminar should actually be more helpful.
- Clear directions on where which data work is useful/needed
- Choosing topics in a way that aligns more with interest

- The supervisor can clarify some rules about citation, resources etc, especially for a student who participate in the seminar as the first seminar
